

Stevenson Issues Debate Challenge

Makes Proposal On Eve of Illinois Primary Clash

Kefauver Ready;
Suggests Miami
TV Appearance

CHICAGO (U)—Adlai E. Stevenson pressed for a face-to-face debate with Sen. Estes Kefauver today on the eve of their clash in the Illinois presidential primary Tuesday.

Stevenson is officially unopposed in the Illinois Democratic race, the first he has taken on since Kefauver whipped him soundly in the Minnesota primary last month.

However, Kefauver backers are making an open bid for write-in votes, particularly in downstate areas of Stevenson's home state. They hope to gain 10 per cent of the total, although Stevenson insists this wouldn't be enough to hurt him.

A group of Chicagoans backing Ohio Gov. Frank Lausche has also appealed for write-in votes on the Democratic ballot.

On the Republican side, President Eisenhower faces token opposition from Sen. William Knowland and perennial campaigner Lar Daly. Knowland would have withdrawn his name from the primary after Mr. Eisenhower's entrance into the race if Illinois law permitted.

Seeks Florida Date

Stevenson, already looking ahead to the May 29 Florida primary, said he would like to debate with Kefauver when they are both stumpin' the southern state later this week.

The Tennesseean, campaigning in the District of Columbia, promptly took up the challenge. He said he would be "very happy" to debate political issues with Stevenson and suggested a Miami television appearance.

The Illinois primary results are not binding on the 30 convention delegates who will also be chosen Tuesday by both Democrats and Republicans.

There is also little chance of a head-on "popularity contest" between Stevenson and Mr. Eisenhower, such as featured last week's Kefauver-Eisenhower clash in Wisconsin. This is because Illinois voters are not allowed to cross party lines in primaries.

However, political observers kept an eye on the total vote piled up by the two parties as a possible sign of the candidates' appeal.

Expect Lighter Vote

Predictions of the total vote ran as high as two million, about 300,000 under that of the 1952 primary. The Republicans out-voted the Democrats that year and went on to sweep the boards in Illinois in November.

In addition to voting for delegates and the presidential candidates, there are hot fights for nominations on the state level this year. Republican Gov. William Stratton faces opposition from

April Winds Whip Dust Storms, Forest Fires in South; Snowstorm in East

By United Press

April storms with a wintry bite raged from the Southwest to the Eastern Seaboard today. They hit a vast area with dust storms, tornadoes, heavy snows, and flood threats.

High winds in the Southland whipped scores of forest fires across Georgia and North and South Carolina. Firefighters' only hopes lay in showers and slackening winds.

In the East, the April onslaught was one of the latest spring snowstorms on record. In the Southwest, the sky turned orange-black with the second major dust storm in a week.

The U. S. Weather Bureau warned that a fast-developing storm would move out of Oklahoma with more wintry weather.

Blowing dust was predicted for Oklahoma and Texas, severe thunderstorms for parts of Kansas and Missouri, and heavy snow for parts

Fire Destroys Home At Carrier Mills

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Evans of Carrier Mills Saturday night.

Mr. Evans operates the Ben Franklin store in Carrier Mills. When firemen from Carrier Mills reached the house on East Washington street around 10 p. m. they found it completely ablaze and could do nothing to save the structure. Everything in the two-story frame structure was lost.

It was learned that Mr. and Mrs. Evans had left their home about 9 p. m. to go to their farm to spend the week-end.

The Harrisburg fire truck went to Carrier Mills to protect other buildings but it was not necessary for the local truck to hook up.

Eisenhower Dislikes Farm Bill: Martin

WASHINGTON (U)—President Eisenhower told congressional Republican leaders today that the pending farm bill is not "a good bill." He urged them to make a last-ditch effort to send it back to a Senate-House conference committee for revision.

He discussed the bill with legislative leaders and Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson at a White House meeting shortly before leaving for a golfing holiday at Augusta, Ga.

A formal statement read to reporters by House GOP Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts after the meeting said Mr. Eisenhower feels that the present measure "does not meet the test of a good bill."

Asked whether this was meant as a warning that Mr. Eisenhower will veto the bill if it reaches him in its present form, Martin replied, "not necessarily."

Martin said House GOP leaders will try to send the bill back to conference committee when it comes to the House floor Wednesday.

As approved 8-2 by the conference committee last week, the bill would restore rigid high price supports for one year, which Mr. Eisenhower strongly opposes. It also contains other features the administration doesn't like, along with the President's own plan for a $1,200,000 soil bank program.

County Exams April 28 for U. I. Scholarships

Examinations for University of Illinois scholarships will be held April 28 in every county of the state. They will be given by the county superintendent of schools.

One county scholarship, one agriculture scholarship, and one home economics scholarship is available in each county through these examinations, and in Cook County, 66 additional special county scholarships. Winners are exempt from tuition fees during four years at the state university.

Examination sessions will be from 9 to 11 a. m. and 1:30 to 4:30 p. m. To be eligible, candidates must be residents of the county, stand in the upper half of their high school class, and meet admission requirements of the university.

The morning examination session will be devoted to English composition and rhetoric, including spelling and vocabulary. In the afternoon candidates will write on two of three subjects: social studies, mathematics, natural science. The last includes science subjects normally taught in high school.

Persons planning to write the examination must notify their county superintendent of schools in advance. Further information can be obtained from him.

Information about other scholarships in the university can be obtained from the director of admissions and records, University of Illinois, Urbana.

Capt. Jos. Land to Head Navy Hospital At Pensacola, Fla.

Capt. Joseph Land, formerly of Harrisburg, will assume his new duties as commanding officer of the U. S. Navy hospital at Pensacola, Fla., this summer, he has informed his father, R. F. Land, here.

He wrote his father that he plans to leave Beaufort June 1, and will go to Washington, D. C., where he will spend five days at the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery for briefing on his new duties.

He and Mrs. Land plan to arrive in Harrisburg for a visit about June 14 and to be at Pensacola around June 20.

Ike Asks Defense Funds; Bitter Fighting in Gaza

Israel Reports UN Ultimatum Sent to Egypt

Warns Commando
Raids Will
Bring Retaliation

JERUSALEM (Israeli Sector) (U)—Israeli and Egyptian troops fought an hour-long battle in the Gaza area today. An Egyptian military spokesman reported in Cairo that "many Israelis" were killed and wounded.

Israel reported that Egyptian suicide squads made six terror raids into Israel during the night despite a reported United Nations ultimatum to Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser to halt such attacks or risk being branded an aggressor.

An Israeli military spokesman said one Israeli and one Egyptian soldier were killed in clashes with the Egyptian commandos. The attacks have caused Israel to go on a war footing, prepared to call for an all out draft should the situation worsen.

These were the major developments in the Middle East crisis:

1. United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold, en route to the Middle East to try to prevent a war, conferred in Vatican City today with Pope Pius XII. Hammarskjold leaves Rome late today for Beirut, Lebanon.

2. An Egyptian military spokesman reported large casualties inflicted on an Israeli armored patrol which he said tried to penetrate the Egyptian-held Gaza strip. He listed Egyptian losses as two wounded.

3. Israel announced that Egyptian commandos—identified as "Do or die" Fadayeens—raided Israel six times during the night in a spreading wave of sabotage that resulted in injuries to both women and children as much as 18 miles from the border.

4. Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, chief of the U. N. Truce Supervisory Commission, was reported by Israel to have sent an "ultimatum" to Nasser demanding an unconditional and immediate halt to the sabotage operations. If not, Egypt, would risk being branded an "aggressor."

HAMMARSKJOLD FLIES TO TINDERBOX—Newsmap spots the area where sparks from sporadic fire fights between Israeli-Egyptian forces could set off the tinderbox of Middle East war. U. N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold will headquarter at Beirut, Lebanon, with U. N. truce chief Gen. E. L. M. Burns as he seeks to bring peace to the troubled area. French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau, who reportedly favors drastic action by the West to achieve a balance of power in the area, has postponed a visit to Tel Aviv pending outcome of Hammarskjold's mission. ## Most of $547 Million for B-52 H-Bomb Fleet

President Says
Request Will Not
Unbalance Budget

WASHINGTON (U)—President Eisenhower asked Congress today to increase defense appropriations for the coming fiscal year by $547,100,000.

More than half of the extra funds will go to strengthen the nation's H-bomb fleet of B-52 jet bombers.

Mr. Eisenhower said that only about 400 million dollars of the requested funds would actually be spent during the 1957 fiscal year starting July 1. Therefore, he said, the new request "will not unbalance the 1957 budget" which he presented to Congress in January. The budget originally provided for a federal surplus of about 400 million dollars.

Mr. Eisenhower earmarked 376 1-2 million dollars of the new appropriation for the Air Force to provide for "accelerated production" of long-range B-52s, and construction of additional Strategic Air Command bases to handle them.

Part of the Air Force funds also would go to speed construction of the so-called "DEW line" or Distant Early Warning line of radar stations stretching 3,000 miles across the Arctic rim of northern Canada.

Few Details Given

The President also sought $65,600,000 for the Navy; $55,000,000 for the Army; and $50,000,000 for "inter-service activities."

He said the "inter-service" funds will go "primarily to provide for meeting unforeseen developments in the ballistic missile program." He did not elaborate.

The Navy funds will provide for additional ship conversions and the Army funds for a minor increase in ground forces strength.

No details of the new programs were given in Mr. Eisenhower's supplemental appropriation request, which was formally submitted to Congress after the chief executive left by plane for a golfing holiday in Augusta, Ga.

Mr. Eisenhower said that of the Air Force funds, about $24,500,000 would go directly for purchase of new B-52 bombers and $128,000,000 for construction of new B-52 bases and the DEW line radar screen. Defense officials said the B-52 program will provide 30 of the far-reaching eight-jet bombers. With the support facilities, the B-52 program comprises more than half of the total appropriation request.

Congressional Republicans are confident the administration move will take the punch out of a coming Senate investigation of air power.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
Oldest Senator Routs Robber;
White House Is Sensitive
About Ike's Golfing Diplomacy;
Chesapeake And Ohio
RR Helped Promote Canadian-Mexican Meeting At White Sulphur, W. Va.

WASHINGTON. — Sen. Theodore Francis Green, Rhode Island Democrat and the oldest member of the Senate, slugged a holdup man on a dark Washington street the other night and sent the would-be robber scurrying away.

Green, who is 88 years old and will break all the All-American records for Senate age if he lives out his term—as I predict he will—was walking up 18th street to keep a dinner engagement when someone grabbed his shoulder from behind.

"This is a holdup," growled the stranger, "give me your watch and all your money."

"I'll give you nothing," said the scrappy senator, who up until recently wrestled twice a week in the Senate gymnasium.

"I'll kill you," warned the hold-up man.

The senator confided later that he wasn't quite sure what to do, but he let out a yell for help. At this point, the holdup man put both hands on his shoulders, leaving himself slightly off balance.

So the senator from Rhode Island took a terrific swing at the robber's face.

This seemed to unnerv him. He mumbled something about Green not being reasonable and ran down the street. The senator let out a couple more yells for help but got no response. So he walked on to his dinner.

When he got to dinner he did not immediately tell his host about the experience. He said he was a little upset, also, didn't want to create a disturbance. Finally, after dinner was over he phoned the police.

Three officers arrived, and he went to the police station to look over pictures of suspects.

Senator Green still walks to work in the morning, which takes him about an hour and a half from the University Club on 16th street to the Senate office building.
But he has changed one habit. He no longer walks through the dark alley from the University Club to the Mayflower Hotel. While it was not in the alley that he met the holdup man, he nevertheless has concluded that he doesn't like dark streets or alleys.

GOLF VS. DIPLOMACY

Judging by good old Jim Hagerty's fiery denial, I struck a raw White House nerve when I reported that Ike had spent more time on the golf course at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., than he had conferring with the Canadian and Mexican chiefs of state.

Actually, any golf player can add up the time it normally takes to play golf and come to a conclusion contrary to Mr. Hagerty's.
However, the really important may be why Jim's nerve is raw.

Ike first played 18 holes of golf on Monday, March 26, the day his visitors arrived. He played with Sam Snead, the White Sulphur pro, and while he used a golfmobile to ride uphill, he walked over most of the course. This took all of one morning, something around three hours.

Ike's visitors arrived that afternoon, and that evening he sat down to a 14-guest dinner with them during which he chiefly reminisced about his war experiences with the Russians. There was plenty of table chat, but no conferring or diplomatic business of any kind.

Next morning, March 27, at 10:30, the President met with both the Canadian prime minister and the Mexican president together, for one hour and a half. Then after a joint lunch he had one hour with the Mexican chief of staff and a little less than an hour with the Canadian chief of state. Then he immediately popped out on the golf course again—this time for 12 holes.

The Canadian and Mexican visitors were asked by newsmen what they did during this period. They replied: "We found things to do."

The 12 holes took Ike about two hours. Thus, Ike's total time on the golf course at White Sulphur was at least five hours, possibly more. His total conference time with the visiting dignitaries was three and a half hours.

This tabulation is not written for the purpose of belittling the session at White Sulphur. Some of the diplomats felt it didn't get down to brass tacks and accomplished little. However, personal conversation around the dinner table can be very important in helping the heads of states get to know each other.

HAGERTY'S RAW NERVE

The raw nerve touched at the White House probably resulted from the fact that the White Sulphur meeting was put across as a combination public relations deal for the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, plus a golfing junket for Ike, plus some worth-while diplomacy.

The publicity-minded Robert R.
Young, good friend of the President and former president of the C. and O. Railroad, has long had something of a white elephant on his hands in the form of the Greenbrier Hotel. Other railroad men scoffed at the money it lost.

Young, however, has defended it, made it his pride and joy. It was he who arranged to have Premier Nehru be guest of honor at a gala dinner at the Greenbrier when Louie Johnson, a staunch West Virginian, escorted Nehru around the U. S. A.

While Young had to sell his stock in the C. and O. when he acquired the New York Central, he still works with his close friend, Cyrus Eaton of Cleveland, who now controls the railroad, and with William Tuohy, its president.

It was they who arranged to have Sam Snead give up the Miami Open Golf Tournament where he was scheduled to play in order to be on hand to play with Ike.
They wanted Ike to enjoy himself and come again.

Actually the C. and O. was not altogether happy over some phases of the publicity—especially the fact that three people got sick drinking ginger ale in Tuohy's private car which later carried the President. Actually, this had little to do with the trip, but newsmen were hard up for something to write and had to hunt for headlines.

The poisoning incident took place on a Friday, and Ike didn't use the car until Sunday night.
The car would have been completely cleaned of all food and drink before the President used it anyway, so there could have been no attempt on his life, not even remotely.

However, when Ike opened the Baltimore Sun at breakfast and read an 8-column banner about three people being poisoned, he joked to the unhappy Tuohy: "My God, who are they after—you or me? It must be you. I haven't drunk soda pop for years."

Thinking It Over

By Robert Dieffenbacher, D. D.
Written for NEA Service

The railroad stations, the bus terminals, the airports and the highways are all teeming with people. We are living in a day of travel. We move from place to place with the ease of birds flitting from tree to tree.

Some folk travel aimlessly with little purpose and to destinations almost unknown. Others move with purpose so specific that the travel itself appears to be a waste of effort.

Between the two extremes is a happy medium. In this vast middle area we find the people who move with purpose toward a definite destination and who accomplish important results along the way. These folk help those who need help, share their words of encouragement with those who need courage, learn much about the world and its inhabitants. And generally produce worthwhile results for themselves and others.

Let us hope that we know our spiritual, moral and service destinations so that we shall not wander aimlessly through the bog of materialism, the morass of immorality and the wasteland of human selfishness. If we know our spiritual destination, the way through life will be very satisfying and the world will be a better place in which to live.

Have you decided where you are going and how you ought to go?

Meet "Mr. Metropolitan"

... he's a neighbor of yours!

Let us describe "Mr. Metropolitan"

First of all he was carefully selected.
Before his appointment, every care was exercised to make sure that he had the basic qualities essential to the development of a Metropolitan Representative.
He passed a series of selection tests to determine his aptitude for the position.

He has been thoroughly trained. He became expert at fitting the wide varieties of Metropolitan's policies to individual changing needs and budgets. He studied family responsibilities and expenses connected with them.

He took his place on a "team" of specialists, including his Manager and Assistant Managers, as well as experts at the Home Office of the Company. He learned how to bring the experience of the whole "team" to the aid of the individual Metropolitan policyholder.

"Mr. Metropolitan" is also likely to live near you. Chances are he was born and raised in your area. On the average, he has had twelve years of training in all phases of Life Insurance. He is well equipped to serve you both in your home and your place of business.

You will enjoy meeting "Mr. Metropolitan"! Ask him for an analysis of your insurance situation. With the Metropolitan team behind him, you will get a prompt and thorough study based on years of actual experience. Phone now to your Metropolitan Office listed below. Give "Mr. Metropolitan" the chance to prove personally that ...

Metropolitan service is as local as Main Street ... as close as your phone

DO YOU KNOW if elected I will call a meeting of all interested Democrats, Precinct Committeemen and Office holders to assist and advise me on the number of candidates we should nominate, which has not been done before by my opponent.

DO YOU KNOW having two candidates for Representative may mean

Mother Leads Officers to Daughter's Body

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A weeping 35-year-old former mental patient led detectives Sunday to a vacant lot near her home and pointed out a suitcase which contained the body of her 4-year-old daughter.

Mrs. Jean E. Shaw previously had told police, "I killed little Susan." The girl had been missing since last Wednesday when Mrs. Shaw, divorced wife of attorney Prentice Shaw, of Clinton, Iowa, told her 11-year-old daughter that "Susan is dead."

Detectives had hoped Mrs. Shaw was making up incoherent stories about murdering the child. In a psychopathic ward at General hospital, the attractive mother had told police she first gassed and then poisoned little Susan.

Finally officers persuaded Mrs. Shaw to show them where she hid the body. Police said the woman was upset but not hysterical when she led them to the vacant lot and pointed out the spot.

Shaw, who arrived here Saturday to aid in the search for Susan, was stunned when informed the child was found dead. He had discounted his former wife's stories. "She habitually pulls stunts like this," he had told police.

Detectives entered the case last Thursday when Mrs. Shaw's other daughter, Pamela, told school authorities her sister died the previous day.

Lawsuit Seeks $2,000 Damages

Raymond Brannon seeks $2,000 damages for injuries from Janie Starnes in a circuit court lawsuit, charging a collision resulted when she tried to kill a bee.

Brannon's complaint, filed by Rumsey and Dennis, says that on April 24, 1954, Brannon was a passenger in the car of Don Dial which was travelling eastward on Route 13 in Williamson county.

It says that Janie Starnes was driving westward and that when a bee entered her car she attempted to kill it without stopping her auto and that the collision of the Dial and Starnes cars resulted.

Ministers Must File for Social Security Coverage Not Later Than April 15

April 15 is a very important date for clergymen who desire to receive credit for their 1955 earnings under social security. E. Bishop Hill, district manager of the Harrisburg social security office, announced today.

This is the last date for filing Form 2031 (Waiver Certificate) with the Director of Internal Revenue in order to have 1955 earnings counted for social security protection.

The Waiver Certificate is effective for a taxable year only if it is filed on or before the due date for filing the income tax report of that year. That means that those ministers or members of religious orders who want to begin earning their social security credits in 1955 must file the certificate on or before April 15, 1956.

Under the 1954 Amendments to the Social Security Act, duly ordained, commissioned, or licensed clergymen, Christian Science Practitioners, and members of religious orders who have not taken a vow of poverty acquire old-age and survivors insurance protection like that of self-employed persons but on an individual elective basis. This election does not involve the church or institution in any way, Mr. Hill continued.

Those individuals have approximately two years after 1954 or after they have $400 or more of net earnings, any part of which came from religious activities to decide whether or not they wish to participate in the program.

Those who do not elect to become covered by the program within the two-year period cannot later have their earnings from their religious duties covered by the law. Those who do elect to participate cannot later withdraw.

Those who wish to file the Waiver Certificate before filing their income tax return should do so now. Submitting the waiver form promptly insures that 1955 earnings will count toward social security. It also insures against overlooking the waiver form at the time the tax return is filed and thus losing the right to have 1955 earnings credited.

Copies of Form 2031 (Waiver Certificate) are available at the office of the Director of Internal Revenue or from the social security office at Harrisburg. Informational pamphlets are also available free of charge at the social security office.

Tornado Damage Stresses Need for Red Cross Funds

J. Ward Barnes, chairman of the Saline County chapter of the American Red Cross, has received the following wire from the American Red Cross:

"Severe tornado damage in six Midwestern area states again confirms urgency of exceeding goals 1956 fund campaign. Reports received so far show 1300 families made homeless. No special disaster campaign being launched because money needed for victims is in your campaign goal. Please immediately take whatever additional steps are necessary to assure reaching goal. If your chapter has already attained goal appreciate your further effort in securing substantial oversubscription."

Saline county has not yet reached 50 per cent of its 1956 fund drive goal which is $12,005. Everyone who has not contributed as generously as possible is asked to mail their contribution to John R. Murphy, c/o Red Cross Office, Harrisburg, Ill. Mr. Murphy's office is in the court house in Harrisburg if you prefer not to mail your contribution.

This is the year we should reach our goal, Mr. Barnes stated, as so much money has been needed to take care of disaster victims. Red Cross has been charged with this responsibility through donations from the American people.

"No one knows what community will be affected next by such disasters as we have been having recently and we may be one of the counties to need this kind of help. Efforts are now being made in our county to get the Red Cross disaster workers trained and organized in case a disaster should occur in the county so everyone would know his job and the place he could be of the most help," Mr. Barnes said.

McClellan to Open Lobbying Investigation

Attorneys Censured
By George Group;
Keck Also Blamed

WASHINGTON — Chairman John L. McClellan said today that the first task of the new Senate lobbying committee will be to investigate lobbying both for and against the vetoed natural gas bill.

The Arkansas Democrat said his eight-man committee will begin by picking up "any loose ends" left over from the now-completed investigation by another committee into the "Case incident." That investigation, made by a committee headed by Sen. Walter F. George (D-Ga.), was limited to an alleged attempt to sway the vote of Sen. Francis Case (R-Ind.) on the gas bill.

George said Sunday that the entire files of that inquiry would be made available to McClellan's committee. McClellan said that when his group receives and reviews the files "we will start from wherever the George committee left off." He said his committee would make a broader investigation, looking into lobbying on both sides of the gas bill.

In its report on the Case incident, the George committee censured John M. Neff and Elmer Patman, attorneys for the Superior Oil Co. of California, for "galloping irresponsibility" in their efforts on behalf of the gas bill. Neff admitted offering Case a $2,500 campaign gift after ascertaining Case might vote for the bill.

Says No Bribe Involved
The report added that Superior President Howard B. Keck must share any blame in the matter because he was "remarkably lax" in directing the activities of his attorneys.

George told a reporter he had no suggestions to offer for the McClellan inquiry other than the committee's recommendation that a careful study be made of laws on lobbying and campaign spending. But he predicted McClellan "will find a great deal of work."

The George committee said "there was neither a bribe nor an attempt to bribe" involved in the Case incident. But it said that Neff, lobbying "in an inept fashion" for the gas bill, clearly offered Case a campaign contribution "for the purpose of influencing the senator's vote."

Case rejected the contribution and voted against the bill. The Senate approved it, but President Eisenhower vetoed it with a blast at "arrogant" tactics on lobbyists supporting it.

The committee said the testimony showed that Keck "delegated his judgment and responsibility" over campaign donations to Patman, an Austin, Tex., attorney. Patman in turn hired Neff, of Lexington, Neb., who was supplied with contributions from Keck's "personal fund."

Discharged Veteran Arrested for Murder of Airman

NEW YORK — A dishonorably discharged Army veteran faced arraignment today for the murder of an Evanston, Ill., airman.

The FBI arrested Prentice Frank Day, 21, San Antonio, Tex., Sunday in a bowery hotel. He was charged with the murder of Airman 2.C. Roger C. Timm of Evanston.

Timm's body was found near Madill, Okla., last Feb. 22 a week after his bloodstained car was found in San Antonio, Tex. Day became the object of a search as a hitchhiker believed to have shot Timm.

Day is also charged with transportation of a stolen car across state lines and unlawful flight to avoid prosecution, the FBI said.

A movement has been started in the lower counties of the district to try and get voters of that area to cast three votes for the candidate from Massac County. An advertisement appeared in the Metropolis "News" this week, stating that the Massac County candidate is more interested in Massac County and its problems.

The advertisement also contained a plea for voters to band together against Saline and other counties of this area, claiming that Massac County might never get another representative.

Our area has not had a state representative for many years. We are entitled to one. Saline county is one of the largest and most important counties in the district. Gallatin, Hardin, Hamilton, and Saline counties must stand together, united as an area, behind one man who will go to bat for them!

We're not being selfish, but we must fight fire with fire!

SPRINGFIELD — The State Mining Board will hold examinations for various mining competency certificates in southern Illinois for the first time in 40 years on April 28, it was announced today. Ben H. Schull, state mines and minerals director, said the board would hold its regular spring examinations at West Frankfort high school.

He said 1916 was the last time these tests were held in southern Illinois. For the last 40 years they have been held at Springfield.

Each member exhibited four of his best prints of the past year, which is a requirement. Name Winners Of HTHS Cancer Poster Contest

Darrell Winkelman, Bill Hatcher and Jane Capel, art students at the Harrisburg Township high school, have been named winners of the Saline county division of the statewide Cancer Poster contest sponsored by the Harrisburg chapter of the American Cancer society.

The winners' entries will be forwarded for statewide judging in Chicago April 15. The contest is being held to acquaint high school students with one of the country's major health problems—cancer. Six cash prizes totaling $525.00 in three categories will be awarded in the final judging in Chicago, the prizes being donated by the Illinois Women's Golf association. The poster contest is part of the Illinois Division's educational program.

The first prize check of $10.00 and second of $5.00 were awarded to the winners by Mrs. John C. Humm, Saline county chairman of the American Cancer society, on a WSL television program, Friday evening. The local prizes were donated by Delta Alpha chapter of Delta Theta Tau Sorority, Inc. Appearing on the program with Mrs. Humm were Mrs. Nelson Pankey, 1956 campaign chairman, Mrs. Louie Gaskins, service chairman, and Mrs. James Gaskins, education chairman of the Saline county chapter.

Contest judges here were Mrs. Harold Bauman and George Carr of this city and the posters were made under supervision of Miss Kathryn Rice, art instructor in the high school.

Stevenson Issues Challenge to Kefauver

State Treasurer Warren Wright in his bid for a second term and there is a two-way fight for governor on the Democratic side.

Voters will also nominate candidates for U. S. Senator, six other statewide offices, 25 congressmen, and various legislative and county offices.

Stevenson Speaks Tonight
Stevenson will wind up his Illinois campaign tonight when he appears on a 15-minute telecast with Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley.

He busied himself around his stamping grounds, the northern suburbs of Chicago, in a "folksy" bid for votes Sunday. He shook every hand that was stretched out to him and grinningly chided many of the suburbanites for being Republicans in disguise.

At a news conference, he proposed the Kefauver-Stevenson debates "as a wonderful opportunity to spread the Democratic gospel." He called Kefauver charges of mud-slinging "nonsense," but said the senator's voting average during the last full Congress was only 50 per cent, "the second worst in the 83rd Congress."

"Perhaps one reason he doesn't have the support of his colleagues in the Senate or many Democratic leaders around the country is his absenteeism," Stevenson said.

In the Republican ranks, Samuel W. Witter Jr., chairman of the Illinois Citizens for Eisenhower, predicted the President will get more than 75 per cent of the total GOP vote.

Dirksen Runs Unopposed
Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, Illinois' Republican member of the upper house, is unopposed in the primary. But some of his fellow Republicans have tougher going.

In addition to the gubernatorial battle, where there are five GOP candidates, Chicago alderman Nicholas Bohling is challenging Secretary of State Charles Carpenter. In an attack Sunday night, Bohling charged that Carpenter issued a printing contract to a Springfield firm more than two months before the company filed a declaration with the county clerk.

The Democratic state ballot is sparked by a lively tussle for the nomination for governor between organization candidate Herbert C. Paschen, Cook county treasurer, and Morris B. Sachs, a maverick businessman in politics who is now Chicago city treasurer.

There are a record-breaking number of candidates for the state general assembly, but few hot battles for congressional seats.

Submarine's Radio
Water is a very effective absorber of radio waves and a submarine that is completely submerged cannot send or receive them. However, it can do so if the periscope, to which the radio antenna is attached, is above the water's surface.

The first statewide convention of the Republican party was held at Jackson, Mich., in 1854.

Hammaraskjold Discusses Crisis With Pope Pius

ROME — U. N. Secretary Dag Hammarskjold met today with Pope Pius XII to discuss peace in the Middle East and the world.

Hammarskjold talked privately with the Pope for 20 minutes and then left the Vatican at 9:50 a. m. to drive back into the city of Rome for further talks on the Mideast.

The threat of war between Israel and its Arab neighbors suddenly grew so great Hammarskjold cut short his other scheduled talks and planned to leave for the Mideast a full day ahead of schedule.

"By leaving tonight the secretary general will be a day ahead of the game," George Ivan Smith, his personal assistant, told newsmen.

Hammarskjold conferred through the weekend with United Nations representatives who flew here from the Middle East, scheduled a conference with President Giovanni Gronchi and was expected to see Premier Antonio Segni and Foreign Minister Gaetano Martino before taking off for Beirut, Lebanon.

New flareups in the Mideast prevented U. N. Truce Supervisor Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns from coming to Rome for talks with Hammarskjold as scheduled. Burns discussed ways to ease tension in an urgent meeting Sunday night with Israeli Premier David Ben-Gurion.

It was the first time the Pope had met the head of the U. N. since the organization was founded 11 years ago.

Vatican sources said the Pontiff was ready to do anything in his power to help Hammarskjold silence the guns in the Mideast.

St. Louis Man Dies In Smashup on Approach To MacArthur Bridge

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. — A 22-year-old St. Louis man was killed in an automobile mishap on the East St. Louis approach of the MacArthur bridge.

He was identified as Spencer Skinner.

J. R. Caldwell, a passenger in his car, told police that the car had locked bumpers with another auto. He said Skinner gave chase as the first car drove west but lost control and the automobile crashed into a girder at the top of the east approach.

Caldwell and his 20-year-old wife and another passenger, Miss Dorothy Gladney, suffered minor injuries.

The Downstate Fisherman's Guide

By PETE BROWN
(From reports by the Southern Illinois University Cooperative Fisheries Research Laboratory and the Illinois Department of Conservation.)

Little Grassy Lake, all 1,000 acres of it, continued to draw fishermen and produce fish during the week, with some catches bordering on the spectacular.

Corbendale's Gordon Gibbs, for instance, tried out one of the lake's many inlets for two hours one morning, using "an old Redhead topwater bait." He caught eight largemouth, the biggest one five and three quarters, and the total going 37 pounds.

Another Corbendale angler, Ralph Dillow, took three on the Paul Bunyan, the biggest one weighing in at seven and a quarter pounds. Both men (as do most Little Grassy fans) were casting inshore.

But the honor of boating the biggest bass this season goes to Jess Day of Salem. Day has been fishing Little Grassy for 10 years, and his devotion was dramatically rewarded at 5 a. m. Tuesday, April 3. It was one ounce shy of nine pounds.
Day said he was using a homemade spinner.

Water Temperature Jumps
Little Grassy boat dock operator Julius Swayne estimates that over 1,000 pounds of largemouth were taken on the lake during the week.
He says Little Grassy bass fishing at present "is better than it has been since 1951, and all of the fish are big." Crappie and bluegill are still quiet.

Water temperature jumped up to 57 degrees at Crab Orchard Lake, with a corresponding flash of response from the fish. Minnows were attracting white crappie between five and nine inches and bass began to show some spirit.
A one-day (7 a. m. to 7 p. m.) creel census on boat fishermen, conducted by the SIU Fisheries Laboratory, included two 11 inch bass, one 17 inches and another 20 inches. The biggest ones were caught on plugs.

Some 10 to 15 inch crappie catches were recorded at Horseshoe Lake, where fishing conditions should be ideal for the next couple of weeks barring any sudden weather reversals. The same holds for Crab Orchard.

A note about equipment at Crab Orchard: Fishermen using lightweight spinning and casting gear would be wise to go in with at least a 10 pound monofilament line. Several gross of assorted plugs are lost here every season because of stumps, roughness, etc.

Ramsey Lake

Bob Mueller of Ramsey, one of the staunchest pillars of the Fayette county fishing fraternity, sends us the following dope on Ramsey State Conservation Area Lake, located about a mile west of Ramsey.

"Ramsey Lake covers more than 80 acres, with about three-quarters of a mile of navigable water. It runs in a northeast to southwest valley, and water ranges from 30 feet deep on the channel side to several shallow coves. It was lowered nearly 10 feet last fall and at present is only about three feet below the top of the spillway.

"Trees near the edge of the water were removed during the winter, with the lower ends of the trees cut into logs about eight feet long and tied down to the ground.
They'll be covered by about three feet of water when the lake returns to normal level, but are just barely covered now. There must be nearly 200 of these all the way around the lake. Any fisherman knows what that means: cover for those big babies close in to the shoreline.

"The lake is stocked with bluegill, few of which are ever caught —the big ones, that is. Big channel catfish are also numerous.
These are stocked each year because conservation officials say these fish won't reproduce there because of lack of cover."

Smallmouth bass are reported to be providing some good catches at Lake Hillsboro, with a five pound, 11 ounce strike by Joe Baugher the best score of the young season.
Baugher used a white Spook River lure. A companion, Melvin Stolte, landed a four pounder on the Red Head.

The International Shoe company of Steelville has opened a fishing contest to continue through September 30. Cash awards will be given for the two largest catfish, bluegill, bass and crappie caught during the period.

Doby Homers But Cards Beat White Sox, 8-6

By United Press

Marty Marion is telling the world the White Sox got the better of that big winter deal with Cleveland and it's pretty tough to argue with him in the light of Larry Doby's .435 batting average—top mark of the spring.

Doby smashed his seventh homer of the spring at Memphis, Tenn.
Sunday off Larry Jackson of the Cardinals. St. Louis won, 8-6.

Willie Mays of the Giants, another center fielder who is enjoying a banner spring, blasted his 12th homer of the training season in a 10-3 victory over the Indians at Dallas.

Brooklyn defeated Milwaukee, 12-5, at Nashville, Tenn., but that triumph also proved costly as Dodger pitcher Roger Craig suffered a twisted left knee while sliding into second base after blanking the Braves for three innings.

Home runs by Tito Francona, Dave Philley and Bob Nelson aided the Baltimore Orioles to a 9-6 victory over the Chicago Cubs.
Alex Kellner and Arnie Port-carrero combined to pitch 3 hit ball as the Kansas City Athletics defeated a 5-game winning streak by defeating the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-0.

Bob Turley, making his best showing of the spring, pitched the Yankees to a 4-2 victory over the Phillies although he tired in the eighth inning and needed relief help from Tom Morgan.

Veteran Steve Gromek gave up only one scratch hit in five innings as Detroit defeated Houston of the Texas League, 6-1.

Frank Sullivan worked seven shutout innings as the Red Sox beat the Birmingham Barons of the Southern Assn., 6-3.

Cincinnati defeated Washington, 9-6, despite homers by Pete Runnels, Roy Sievers and Harmon Killebrew.

Veterans to Ask 200 More Beds at Marion Hospital

HERRIN, Ill. (AP)—Southern Illinois veterans' organizations will ask the Veterans Administration to add 200 beds to the Veterans Administration hospital at Marion.

Delegates from the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Disabled American Veterans met near here Sunday. They voted to insist that the VA add 200 beds for domiciliary care at the hospital at Marion.

The 200 delegates also went on record as opposing any further sale or resurvey for sale of land around the Marion VA hospital.

The Veterans Administration recently announced it considered plans to sell 123 acres of land as surplus acreage. However, VA Administrator Harvey Higley said 71 acres at the rear of the hospital might be resurveyed in the future.

Delegates from 167 American Legion posts in the Legion's 5th Division endorsed John Gleason for national Legion commander. Gleason is a Chicago banker who is a member of the Legion's national rehabilitation commission.

Pulaski Man Fatally Shot After Murder Indictment

MOUND CITY, Ill. (AP)—An inquest will be held later this week into the death of a Pulaski County tavernkeeper who had been indicted for murder.

Lester Winchester, 59, died in a Cairo hospital Saturday night. He was found in his automobile with a bullet wound in his head Saturday morning.

Winchester was the object of a search by sheriff's officers and police following his indictment by a Pulaski County grand jury last Friday in connection with the murder of Clate Adams. The jury indicted Winchester for allegedly aiding and abetting in the murder of Adams in Adams' tavern near Olinsted, Feb. 23.

A Cairo man, Alfred Reahm, 37, pleaded guilty to the crime and was sentenced to 180 years in prison. Norman Halliday Jr., 33, also of Cairo, is awaiting arraignment on a murder indictment in the case.
State crime laboratory investigators were in Pulaski County Saturday to investigate the case but the sheriff's office at Mound City said a report is not expected until Tuesday or possibly later this week.

Authorities said Winchester may have shot himself with the .38 caliber revolver found near his body.
However, three bullet holes were found in his car and authorities investigated the possibility there may have been foul play.

House Committee Finds Only Slight Abuse by Veterans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman
Olin E. Teague of the House Veterans committee said today a committee study shows that only a "small percentage" of veterans are abusing their right to free hospital treatment if they cannot afford to pay.

The Texas Democrat based this statement on a dual federal investigation of the veterans medical program by the committee and the General Accounting Office.

The investigators reported hundreds of abuses by veterans and doctors, but noted that these did not make up a large percentage of the overall program. Exact ratios were not offered in the reports.

Employment Shows Increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government reported today that employment increased last month to a total of 63,078,000. That was a gain of 501,000 over the previous month.
But at the same time the total number of unemployed dropped by only 80,000 to 2,834,000. The difference in the increase in employment and the decrease in unemployment reflected the fact that more people, such as housewives were in the market for jobs.

The statistics were in a report jointly released by the Commerce and Labor departments.

Damage was confined to the rug.

Jack Burke Comes from Behind to Win Masters Over Venturi, Middlecoff

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)— Jack Burke Jr., who just puts two and two together for par fours, wore the prized Masters golf crown today and left an amateur still reaching for the end of the rainbow.

This time it was Ken Venturi who lost out in the final tumultuous nine at the Augusta National Course by one stroke to a professional. Two years ago Billy Joe Patton had it in his unadorned amateur bag only to blow it on the final nine and let Sam Snead and Ben Hogan take over in a playoff, Snead winning.

For Burke, even though his 289 score tied the highest mark for four rounds which brought about the same playoff, it was a big victory that came belatedly but not too late.

Burke actually won the tournament with a birdie on the 17th, although he didn't know at the time how utterly Venturi and defending champion Cary Middlecoff would fall apart.

Edges Jackie On

Hefty Mike Soucek, Burke's partner, edged Jackie on saying,
"Maybe they're still shooting bo-geys." So that 5-9 Texan decided to go for the cup and sank it.
He didn't realize that Venturi would come along a minute later and bogey the same hole and hand him the title. Venturi was second with 290, Cary Middlecoff third at 291.

"I tried to hit it in the fairway, hit in onto every green and then get down in two," Burke said.
"When I sink a 15-footer I'm really just trying to lay it up close."
"I was just trying to shoot a par 72," Burke said. "I never thought it would win but I thought it might mean I was in the first four."

Cards Six Bogies

At the same time Venturi was playing some other guy, namely Cary Middlecoff, defending Masters champion who went six over par on three par four holes to cool off his chances for a record repeat.

Venturi shot 38 and 42 with six bogies on the back nine.

"I wasn't nervous," Venturi said. "I couldn't get a putt to drop." He said he was trying to get too close to the holes with his irons and as a result overshot several greens.

"I just couldn't get into the hole and that was all there was to it," he said. "They say golf is the most humbling game in the world and I believe it."

Venturi's defeat goes down in links history as one of the most amazing crack-ups in a major tournament.

Four Strokes Ahead

Ken, pupil of Byron Nelson, led from the first round right through the third. He went into Sunday's circuit with a four-stroke lead over Middlecoff and eight strokes over Burke. What's more he still was four strokes ahead when he made the turn after nine holes.

Few people noticed that the methodical Burke had picked up three strokes over that first nine and now trailed by only five. It didn't seem important, for the duel appeared to be between Venturi and Middlecoff.

But then amateur Ken, who had bogeyed the ninth, made it four straight by bogeying the 10th, 11th, and 12th. He banded the ground with his club on the 12th.

A good recovery gave him a par on the 13th, but he bogeyed the 14th for four out of the last five.
A par on the 16th set the stage for another bogey on the 17th and the final par didn't matter.

Middlecoff muffed with three double-bogeyes on par fours. The last was the 17th.

That was the hole that Burke birdied. In fact, that hole turned out to be the tournament.

THE STORY: Mike Morrison, an American trapped in Greece by the 1941 Nazi invasion, unwittingly promises to deliver a letter to London. Thinking it is a business matter, Mike learns too late it involves British Intelligence and that German agents will stop at nothing to obtain it. Mike collapses during an air raid after he changed clothing with a dead soldier. He is put aboard a train. When he tries to contact a British officer on the train Mike comes face to face with a German agent seeking him.

VI

Morrison spun about and shot through the car, onto the platform and through the next car—and the next.

When he reached the jammed door of his own car he forced his shoulder against it until it finally burst open.

He halted his flight midway up the aisle. The door to his compartment was open. In the reflection of the glass he could see the little man with horn-rimmed glasses.

"You say he was here!"

"Yes, sir," Mike heard the medic answer.

"Where did he go?"

"Forward, sir, to Colonel Potter—three cars down."

"I've got to reach him first."

Mike ducked into a compartment where two wounded soldiers lay. The little man in the horn-rimmed glasses rushed past.

He reached the rear platform—the end of the train. A blur of olive trees, and the ribbons of steel shooting out under the wheels and disappearing on the horizon.

Mike looked through the glass. The tall New Zealander was entering the opposite end of the car. There was a pistol in his hand. He walked slowly, looking into each compartment. He raised his eyes toward the rear platform, raised the pistol and made for it.

Michael Morrison balanced himself on the edge of the step. The ground tore past him as he looked down.

He eased back to the platform and crouched beside the door, poised to spring on Mosley the instant the door opened.

The train screamed to a sudden stop and Mike's feet flew out from under him.

The sound from the sky—he knew it now—Stukas!

Little black specks circled overhead and began to take form as they dropped lower.

Mike leaped from the platform and rolled down the siding. Behind him men poured from the train, from the platform, through the windows.

The scream—the hideous scream as the bombs fell to earth. Mike covered his head. The ground rumbled and split under the impact of the bombardment.

The first volley fell wide of the train. Everyone was up and running madly over the field toward a grove of olive trees. They fell and clawed at the earth as the Stukas came in for a second pass.

Over his shoulder Mike saw the third car disintegrate. The line of cars went into a snake dance. The engine skittered off the track and rolled down the rail bed, snorting and hissing.

Mike tumbled in at the edge of the olive grove. Soldiers poured in all about him and fell flat and lay motionless.

The Stukas turned from the destroyed train and began to blast the soldiers in the field who were scurrying like frightened ants. The planes cut them down like blades of grass then roared in on the olive grove at tree-top level.

They swept in so low that Mike could make out the face of one of the pilots. A soldier near him kneeled and fired his rifle defiantly. He shook his fist and screamed an oath. An officer ran to the soldier and jerked the rifle from his hand.

"Do you want them to know where we are?" the officer yelled.

"They know where we are! What kind of a war is this?"

The argument ended as a hail of bullets ripped the earth around them.

Then, their bombs gone, their machine guns empty, the Stukas ended their sport and flew off.

Someone tapped Mike on his shoulder.

A young Australian captain stood over him. "You there, get over there." He pointed to a unit of men forming outside the grove.

Mike wobbled to his feet. "Colonel Potter—where is he?"

"The Colonel's been hit."

"I want to speak to the next in command." He dug into his pockets for the credential. It was missing. Mike looked about. The whole place was in utter confusion. It would be useless.

"Sorry, sir," Mike said to the captain and he joined the group of men at the edge of the grove.

Other officers were forming groups of a hundred men, regardless of former units. The Aussie captain stood before Mike's group.

"All right, lads, pay attention," the captain said. "With those Stukas about, we've got to stay in small units. No more train rides."

Feeble laughter.

"We strike out by foot and stay together."

"Captain, sir, where are we going?"

"That's a top secret," the captain lied. He wished he knew.

They moved out over the rails toward the foothills, marching at a murderous pace in search of refuge before the Stukas returned.

As for Michael Morrison, American tourist, he was helplessly snarled in a gang of desperate, fleeing men. It was useless for him to try to find someone in command—no one seemed to be in command. Where to go? What to do? Where to run? Where to hide? (To Be Continued)
